Motivated by the pioneering spirit of those who realize the value of seeing life through the medium of pictures, we have made photography the unifying idea in this issue of the Red and Black. Through its pages we have tried to record for you the activities of our school community in this year of 1936 and 1937, and to suggest the opportunities that were available to you. In the hope that you may find pleasure in living over again familiar scenes and experiences, we present this record of school life in action.

The Editors

Through Open Windows

"The lure of the unseen is beckoning,
A prophecy of conquest to the bold
Oh, eagerly I scan the open sea,
For new horizons that are calling me."

WHAT ABOUT ME?

That is the question many young people are asking.

Why not turn your abilities into prompt earnings? You may enter business with a fascinating future, or you may learn to earn your way through college to a professional career if you come to Merrill.

OUR BOARDING SCHOOL is exceptionally attractive. The rooms are pleasantly furnished; food is abundant and well-prepared; you will meet agreeable associates, and enjoy a healthful life of work and play at Merrill.

Parents will be interested in our contract rate, payable monthly or quarterly. The rate covers instruction, room, board, and light laundry, and at least one sight-seeing trip to New York City each semester. There are no extras at Merrill.

Write for our catalog and "Romance in Business," a record of our 1936 graduates.

CROSS COUNTRY—not a wrinkle

How often have you opened your traveling case with a sigh of despair? Dresses have a way of getting mussed up unless they're cared for properly in hand luggage. The new HARTMANN SKY-ROBE — designed especially for women, carries from 4 to 6 dresses wrinkle free on hangers—leaving a large commodious section free for shoes, hats and accessories.

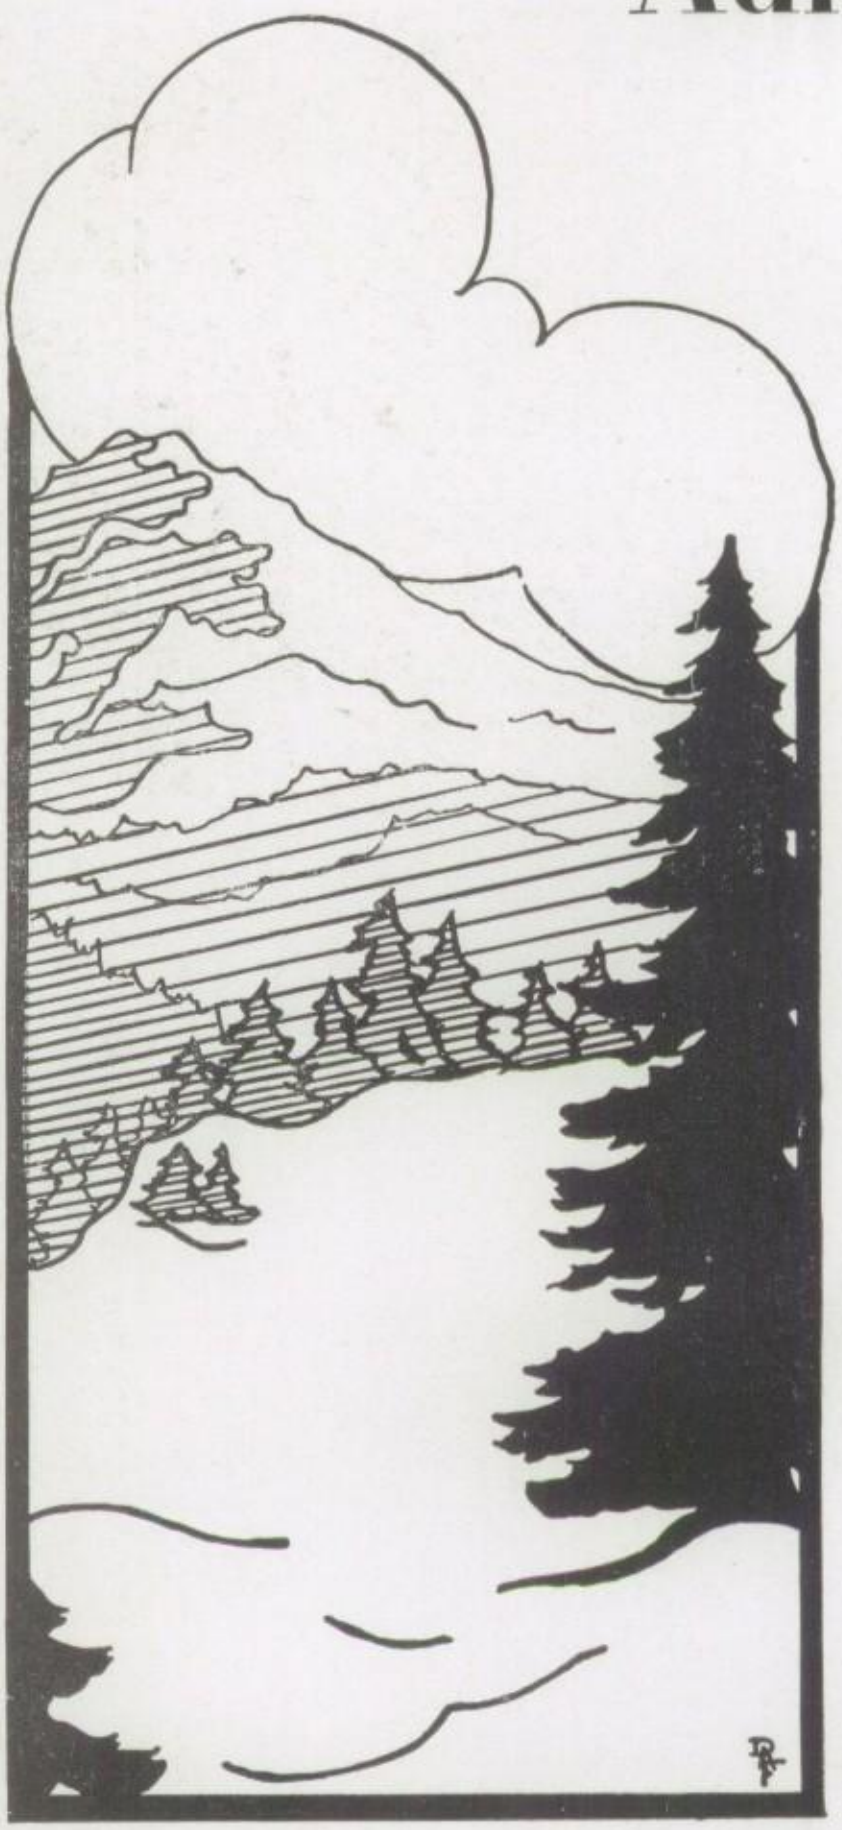
Boy meets Girl

at Glens Falls High School

When romance becomes serious it brings up the question (2nd most important) of where to find a "cottage small by a waterfall." Of course, GRIFFIN's may be a little previous, but they cou'd, if asked, supply

Everything for the home—but the girl

—as sturdy as the Adirondack hills



SOME seventy-seven years ago there was created the Commerce Insurance Company. Its organization in 1859 was based on the spirit of the times that business should be transacted in a careful manner. The major consideration of the founders was safety—safety to policyholders, to agents and to stockholders. • • • The pioneer who ventured the insuring of his property and the agent who ventured his reputation by representing the infant company had never a cause to regret it. • And down through the years the Commerce has continuously protected "the ventures" of those with whom it does business. It has always been a strong and dependable company—writing fire and practically all of its allied lines. An examination of its condition today will assure you that it is as sturdy as the Adirondack hills which surround it.
